

20% shortage in natural gas, say utilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Natural gas utilities estimate they will be almost 20 per cent short of gas needed to meet firm requirements over the next 12 months, the Federal Power Commission reported Friday.

The curtailments could force some industries or businesses to find alternate fuels, to slow down operations or to close down temporarily.

The FPC said the companies had service curtailments averaging 13.58 per cent from April 1974 through March 1975 and expected the gas cutbacks to reach some 19.78 per cent for April 1975 through March 1976.

The report indicated expected gas shortages of 47.65 per cent in the United Gas Pipe Line Co., which serves areas in the Southcentral and Southeastern states. During the previous year, this company reported curtailments of 41.42 per cent of firm requirements.

A shortage of 46.56 per cent was forecast for Trunkline Gas Co., serving parts of the Northcentral, Middle-Atlantic, Southcentral and Southeastern states. The firm suffered curtailments of 39.33 per cent during the previous year.

Eight other gas companies were expected to face curtailments of 25 per cent or more in the coming year.

—Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp., 40.53 per cent compared with the previous year's 27.7 per cent.

—East Tennessee Natural Gas Co., 35.7 per cent, up from 12.9 per cent previously.

—Eastern Shore Natural Gas Co., 32.84 per cent, compared with the previous 13.24 per cent curtailments.

—Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co., 29.95 per cent, only slightly worse than last year's 29.62 per cent curtailments.

—Columbia Gas Transmission Corp., 27.86 per cent, up from 12.92 per cent previously.

—Alabama-Tennessee Natural Gas Co., 26.19 per cent, up from 11.43 per cent.

—Cities Service Gas Co., 25.85 per cent, compared to 17.09 per cent previously.

—And Texas Eastern Transmission Corp., 25.72 per cent, up from 21.45 per cent previously.

Altogether, the FPC said, firm requirements were expected to total some 15 trillion cubic feet, of which some 2.9 trillion would not be available during the coming year.

By comparison, last year's firm requirements were about 14.8 trillion cubic feet, of which about 2 trillion had to be curtailed for lack of supply.

Meanwhile, the FPC had more bad news: another decline in natural gas reserves, for the seventh consecutive year.

The FPC said reserves committed to interstate pipeline companies declined in 1974 by 14 trillion cubic feet and totaled 134.4 trillion cubic feet — a supply that would be used up in only 9.3 years at current production rates.

The commission also reported that net imports of natural gas decreased in 1974 for the first time since 1966, even while the nation suffered a supply shortage.

An FPC spokesman said, however, the drop in imports was due mainly to "deliverability problems" in Canada so that U.S. companies simply could not obtain all the gas imports they wanted.

Daring escape by helicopter

Con is flown over prison walls as knife held to pilot's throat

KIDNAPED PILOT

Hijacked pilot Richard Jackson loads his helicopter with police to return to the scene where he had earlier landed a knife-wielding kidnap and a southern Michigan convict whom he had lifted over prison walls in a successful escape.

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — With a hijacker holding a knife at the pilot's throat, a helicopter swooped over the walls of Southern Michigan Prison on Friday, picked up an inmate and flew him to freedom.

Two persons were arrested and will be charged with conspiracy to commit air piracy, the FBI said. The escaped convict, Dale Otto Remling, 46, of Sidney, Mich., was still at large.

His escape from one of the world's largest walled prisons came three days after the movie "Breakout" was shown at a local theater, but prison officials said it had not been shown at the prison. The movie stars Charles Bronson as a pilot who uses a helicopter to effect a prison bust.

State police arrested Don Hill, 23, of Howell, Mich., and charged him with kidnapping. They said he is believed to be the man with the knife who forced the helicopter pilot to make the flight.

Jolynne Lou Conn, 32, of Weberville was arrested and charged with aiding and abetting the escape.

Mrs. Conn, Hill, Remling and Gertrude Woodbury will be charged under federal anti-skyjacking laws, the FBI said. Miss Woodbury is still at large and reportedly drove a getaway car after the helicopter landed, authorities said. A spokesman said recommended bond for each of the four is $100,000.

The incident began when Richard Jackson, 29, of Westland and his helicopter were hijacked by a charter customer just after lifting off from Mettetal Airport at Plymouth, Mich.

"The guy was a little nervous," Jackson said. "I didn't want to push it. I tried to make a Mayday call when he pulled the knife, but he pulled the (microphone) jacks out."

The helicopter was chartered by a man calling himself Alfred Williams Jr., according to Barney Stutesman, president of Hi-Lift Helicopters Inc. Police said Williams was Hill.

With a knife at his throat, Jackson flew the three-passenger Bell helicopter low toward the prison, popped up over the wall and set down near the prison license plate plant where Remling leaped aboard.

"Thanks," Remling said, according to the pilot. "I think we're going to make it," the skyjacker replied.

The aircraft, 300 yards from the nearest gun tower, quickly lifted off and headed north. No guard saw the copter touchdown or liftoff, and no shots were fired.

"The institution is not equipped with anti-aircraft devices," noted George Weeks, executive secretary to Gov. William Milliken, in memo explaining why no attempt was made to stop the helicopter.

Jackson let the pair off near Munith, 6 miles from the prison, where the hijacker sprayed his face with Mace, a disabling aerosol chemical. They tried to pay Jackson with a $100 bill, but he refused the money.

Jackson, blinded briefly by the chemical, took to the air to search for the two men after they let him go. He began tracking a car and directed Police to Mrs. Conn, who was alone in the car. She apparently led officers to Hill, a probation violator.

Remling was serving a 6-to-10-year term for fraud, prison officials said. He was sentenced in Ionia County in August 1973 after pleading guilty to bouncing a $2,440 check to buy a camper, according to court records.

Viet teens turn tables on Yanks

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — Some 28 high school pupils held a dance for some young refugees here, thinking they could teach the Vietnamese the latest American rock dances.

"They taught us the cha cha and something called the bump," said Terri Blasler, a junior at Fallbrook High School in Fallbrook, east of this Marine base.

British vote: stay in market

LONDON (AP) — Britons have voted overwhelmingly to remain in the Common Market, official returns showed Friday. The referendum tally marked a major victory for Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

With 65 districts out of 68 counted in Thursday's balloting, the vote was 16,537,070 or 67.4 per cent in favor of staying in against 7,988,797 or 32.6 per cent for pulling out.

The count showed British voters had gone the middle way, rejecting the antimarket views of the extreme left and right. The turnout for the referendum, the first in British history, was 65.6 per cent of the 40.5 million Britons eligible to vote.

In Washington officials learned of the British vote with an uncoiled sigh of relief. There was no immediate official statement, but those dealing with European affairs were known to be satisfied with the results.

At Common Market headquarters in Brussels the French president of the Common Market Commission, Francois-Xavier Ortoli, expressed delight with the British vote.

"Like the great majority of the citizens of Europe, I have always been convinced of the need for Europe to have Britain as a full member and for Britain to play a full part in the adventure of uniting Europe."

Market proponents in the Labor, Conservative and Liberal parties, who teamed up to win the campaign, hailed the outcome. Some voiced hope that the argument over membership, which has split Britons for 14 years, now would cease and that the nation would get on with the job of beating inflation, unemployment and economic stagnation.

Army secy., congressmen in crash

HAMILTON, Ga. (AP) — A bus carrying Secretary of the Army Howard "Bo" Callaway, several congressmen and other dignitaries was struck head-on by a jackknifing logging truck in a heavy rain. The two drivers were killed and several passengers were injured, some seriously, authorities said.

Callaway and his son suffered minor injuries in Friday's crash. An ambulance driver said Callaway had cuts on his face.

Callaway's wife, Beth, suffered severe back injuries, possibly a broken back, according to Bill Wilson of the Georgia State Patrol.

U.S. Rep. John Flynt, D-Ga., and his wife suffered multiple injuries, Wilson said.

Sees Ted Kennedy draft in Upland talk

Unruh hits setting parole for Sirhan

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

Sirhan Sirhan, convicted killer of Sen. Robert Kennedy, is not just another murderer but a political assassin who committed treason. State Treasurer Jesse Unruh said here Friday night.

"This is the eighth anniversary of that shooting (Kennedy was shot June 5, 1963 in Los Angeles) and I have been very distressed," said Unruh, speaking at a press conference at the Upland home of Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist.

Unruh said the state Adult Authority was "dead wrong" in setting a 1986 parole date for Sirhan because, "The man I saw that night is never going to change enough to be unleashed on society."

Unruh said he will do everything he can do ("even though we must have due process and give reasons") to get Sirhan back before the Adult Authority and have it "set another life sentence."

On other subjects, Unruh said that he "could see the scenario" whereby Sen. Ted Kennedy would be drafted as the Democratic presidential candidate in 1976.

"Picture the convention and Gov. George Wallace coming in with 30 per cent of the delegates, and the remainder split among a dozen other men," suggested Unruh. "That's how it could happen."

The national economy, Unruh predicted, "isn't going to improve at all until there is a new president in the White House."

His new job as state treasurer isn't as much fun as his old job of Speaker of the Assembly, Unruh said. "Being treasurer isn't nearly as exciting as being in the Legislature. And I'm not a full-fledged financial expert, yet. I have a few things to learn. I hope I'm getting there."

Unruh said he had reduced the state's banking costs about $350,000 a year since taking office, was "leaning on banks to extend equal rights to women" and felt that soon, with his office being enabled to do business with savings and loans, he would be in a position to help the state's housing industry by supplying state money for loans.

During his campaign, Unruh said, he "took no money from banks" and consequently doesn't have to worry about where he banks state money.

He still thinks "we have a long way to go in righting all the wrongs in political campaign funding" and leans towards public financing. "Proposition 9 isn't going to solve all the problems," said Unruh.

The state treasurer came to the valley to be a guest speaker at the West End Democratic Club's annual gala which was held Friday night at Griswold's in Claremont. He shared the speaker's table with other Democrats holding public office.

Mrs. Mae Stover, for more than 30 years a full-time volunteer with the club who now is retiring, was honored at the dinner.

Man held in robbery of 2 finance offices

A 40-year-old Seal Beach man was in the San Bernardino County main jail Friday night, charged with the armed robbery of sister finance companies earlier in the day in Montclair and Pomona.

The suspect was identified as James Ralph Dello.

Dello was arrested at about 2 p.m. after Ontario and Montclair police officers halted his flight on the San Bernardino Freeway at Vineyard Avenue in Ontario.

Employees of the Pomona office of Pacific Finance at 2431 N. Garey Ave., were taken to the scene and a positive identification was made, police said.

According to the police reports, the suspect, armed with a hand gun, entered the Pomona Finance company about 1:40 p.m. and demanded money. After getting about $200, he ordered the employees into the bathroom and told them to stay there for five minutes.

Twelve minutes later, a lone gunman hit the Montclair office of Pacific Finance at 9345 Central Ave. Witnesses described the same suspect.

Dello probably will be arraigned Monday morning in the West Valley Municipal Court, police said.

Lou Catalano, widely known business and civic leader, was named "Citizen of the Year" at the Montclair Chamber of Commerce installation luncheon Friday at Subaro's Italian Gardens, Montclair.

In announcing the award, City Councilman Ernest Rowley cited Catalano for his service as a past president of the Montclair Chamber of Commerce and for his volunteer work with the Ontario-Pomona Association for Retarded Citizens, the American Cancer Society, the Montclair Planning Commission and the Montclair High School Band Boosters Club.

Other chamber members honored this year are Jim Laird and Sims Hunsacker, for industrial developments in the community, and Jess Koopman and Lou Miller, for commercial developments.

Installed as new officers for the 1975-76 year were Loren Stone, Southern California Edison Co. as president; Joe Puch, United California Bank, first vice president; Jess Koopman, Koopman Brothers Furniture, se-

New board directors introduced by Rowley were Don Bray, Newman Draper, Linda Rice, Leonard Ryan and Dale Stewart.

Ken Wright, the outgoing president, was presented a plaque by San Bernardino County Supervisor Robert Townsend, on behalf of the supervisors. In what he termed a "first," Townsend had personally decouped the plaque.

Awards were presented to retiring board members Carl Freeman and Andy Muscarello.

Dave Martin, a past president of the Chamber of Commerce, served as master of ceremonies and introduced the speaker, Kelly Lange, KNBC newscaster.

Women share honors

Businesswoman Irma Sink and senior citizen Lois McDermott were named 1975 Citizens of the Year Friday night by the La Verne Chamber of Commerce.

The honors were bestowed on the two women at the chamber's installation banquet at Griswold's where Barrett Andersen assumed duties as the organization's next president.

work. Mrs. Sink is now owner of the Fashionette, a fabric store, but her public service goes back to the 1940s when she used to operate a grocery store on wheels. She has served since then as a den mother for Cub Scouts, a business leader, a city planning commissioner, a chamber officer, as chairman of Independence Day activities and a supporter of high school groups.

Mrs. McDermott was the first president of the La Verne Senior Citizen's Club which she organized in 1961. While unable to attend many meetings now because of poor health, she has been awarded an honorary membership by the senior citizens.

The presentations were the highlight of the event.

Installed as chamber officers along with Andersen were Mrs. Sink and John McWilliams, vice president; James Johnson, secretary, and Betty Flora, treasurer.

Pilgrim gets planner okay for day school

The Claremont Planning Commission has given the go-ahead for Pilgrim School of Montclair Inc. to establish a day school for remedial education at St. Paul's Congregational Church at 616 Sycamore Ave.

The commission's approval of a conditional use permit was unanimous.

Pilgrim School presently operates classes for 48 students from 5 to 18 at Montclair United Methodist Church, 9950 Fremont Ave., Montclair, but after five years the church has grown and must ask the school to move.

In other actions, the commission tabled for further discussion possible code amendments related to residential unit developments.

The commission sent on to the City Council a recommendation that the Land Use and Development Code be changed to read that except for driveways and parking areas in single-family and industrial areas, all required front and side-street areas will be landscaped.

Driveways and parking areas in single-family districts will not cover more than half the required front or street-side setback. The remaining setback and landscaped areas may not be used for parking, except by approval of City Director of Planning Don King.

The proposed change would restrict parking to paved areas used for that purpose in residential districts, but would provide some degree of discretion for the director of planning where extensive yards might be suitable for additional parking.

The commission also sent to the council suggested changes in the city code relating to unsightly conditions of structures and yards, and spells out more specific items such as unpainted or deteriorating exteriors of buildings including roofs, screen doors, doors, garage doors and walls.

Nine arrested in drug raids

Nine valley residents were arrested Thursday night on various narcotics and restricted dangerous drugs violations during a coordinated vice and narcotics raid staged by members of local police departments, the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Office and Regional Narcotics Task Force.

San Bernardino County Sheriff Frank Bland directed the raids which began shortly after 10:30 p.m. Thursday and ended early Friday morning. In the raids more than 50 officers arrested 30 persons suspected of various narcotics and dangerous drug violations throughout the county. The raid was the result of four months of undercover narcotic officers investigations.

Bland said quantities of marijuana, amphetamines, heroin, hashish, and other drugs were confiscated along with numerous suspected stolen goods.

School board to mull parent voice on execs

Parents are to be included on screening committees which will select public school administrators in Pomona under a redesigned policy submitted to the school board last month.

The new policy will be placed before the board at its regular meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. for action. In addition to the three administrators and three teachers who now constitute a screening committee for administrators, the new policy calls for the addition of three community people and, in the event the administrator is to serve in a high school, the addition of the student body president in a nonvoting, advisory capacity. It is anticipated the board will approve this new proposal since it is faced with the task of filling seven vacant administrative positions in district schools before July 1.

These positions are either assistant superintendent or director of personnel, personnel assistant, assistant principals at Pomona High School and Palomares Junior High School, principal at San Jose Elementary School, dean of students at Ganesha High School and Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) Project supervisor.

The position of assistant superintendent of personnel was deleted by board action in March when the present assistant superintendent of personnel, Lynn Rountree, was selected to replace the assistant superintendent of business, Garrett C. Nichols, who has resigned.

Personnel director James W. Marquis resigned Thursday to become director of personnel in the San Luis Obispo Coastal Unified School District July 1.

The remaining five openings are the result of three resignations, one retirement and one promotion. Those who resigned were Jan Button at Pomona, E. David Barker at Palomares and Philip H. Morgan Jr., ESAA project director. San Jose Principal Eleanor Allen is retiring the end of the school year. Ganesha's dean of students, Ernest E. Polster was elevated to adult school program assistant in March.

Under the new screening committee proposal, when a principal or assistant principal is to be hired, three community people would be selected by parent groups functioning in the school concerned. These groups may include PTA, PTSA, and advisory committees representing ESAA, Comp Ed or Bi-lingual programs.

When an administrator is to be hired into the central office, parent advisory committees at the various schools would be asked to nominate representatives to a panel, and from this panel the school board would select three community representatives to serve on the selection committee.

This new policy was put together after considerable deliberation by board members Mrs. Montes and Braswell, Ganesha science teacher Pauline Gainer, Ganesha language arts teacher Robert Tidgwell, Rountree and schools Supt. Robert Wentz.

In presenting the new policy to the board Thursday, Rountree stressed that it was to be considered as a temporary procedure and used on an interim basis until new board regulations could be adopted.

Only one administrator has been hired since April when the school board requested the formation of new policy allowing parents to sit on screening committees.

He is George H. Bloch, the new principal at Garey High School. The administration had to submit his name to the board twice before he was approved. On April 22, he was rejected on a 2-2 vote. Board president Don Donnelly was absent. On May 6, Donnelly swung with board members Ken Pine and Braswell in supporting the administrators' recommendation that Bloch be hired. Mrs. Montes and Gene Whitlock voted no.

Man admits woundings

Robert Esparaza, 18, of 13257 Second St., Chino, Thursday pleaded guilty in West Valley Superior Court to a charge of misdemeanor assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the wounding of several members of a La Puente family in Chino on Feb. 2.

Esparaza, along with Patrick Ramirez, 18, of 13057 Fourth St., Chino, and David Lee Martinez also of Chino, were arrested by Chino police following the near fatal shooting of 7-year-old Eddie Reyes of La Puente. In that incident the boy's 14-year-old brother was shot and wounded and his father stabbed. It is believed to be a case of mistaken identity. Police theorized that the La Puente family was mistaken for a group of Pomona youths by members of a Chino gang.

Esparaza was ordered to return to the West Valley Superior Court at a later date for sentencing after making his plea.

Judge Clifton L. Allen agreed to combine the trials for Ramirez and Martinez because of Esparaza's plea for the other two defendants in the case has been set later this month.

Optimist Club to fete high school athletes

Thirty-six athletes from valley high schools and their coaches will be honored by the Optimist Club of Pomona at a luncheon meeting Monday at Pomona Elks Lodge.

Optimist project chairman Jack E. Steele said the club has selected Outstanding Athletes as its Salute to Youth theme.

Six high schools — Claremont and Chino, Pomona, Ganesha and Garey, Pomona and Damien in La Verne — will provide athletes for recognition.

The guest speaker at the luncheon will be Col. Frank Kurtz, the only U.S. male athlete to make three U.S. Olympic diving teams.

Kurtz, a most-decorated Air Force pilot, flew the historic Boeing bomber, "The Swoose," now in the Smithsonian Institution.

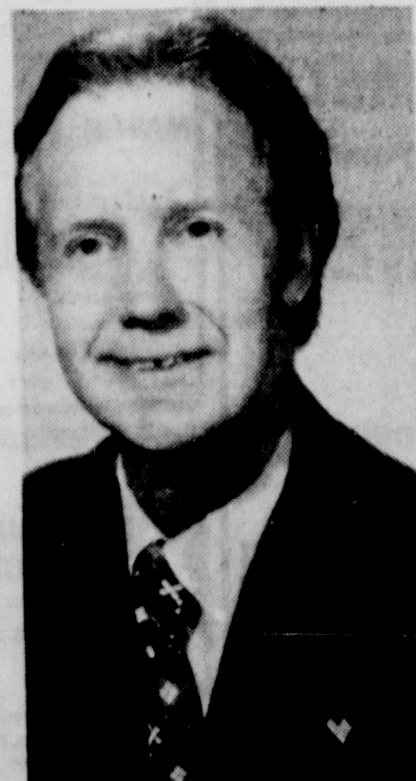

He holds the USC achievement trophy to "Alumnus who has brought the greatest honor to his Alma Mater."

Sportswriter Grantland Rice described Kurtz as "the greatest exhibition diver of all times."

Valley briefs

Driver held on heroin charge

Sheriff's deputies reported that Thursday afternoon they arrested a Monrovia man they accused of driving while under the influence of heroin and having an illegal weapon inside his car.

The suspect was Eugene Franco Cesena, 42, who was stopped in Monrovia by deputies who said he had been driving erratically and had run a stop sign.

Deputies reported that Cesena's arm bore many puncture marks and that a search of his car revealed the weapon, a set of fighting sticks used in Asian martial arts. Cesena was booked at the San Dimas substation.

Bowel diseases topic of parley

The public is invited to learn more about ileitis and colitis, two debilitating inflammatory bowel diseases, at an open meeting Sunday at 3 p.m. in the auditorium of Queen of the Valley Hospital, West Covina.

The seminar is being sponsored by the San Gabriel Valley Chapter of the National Foundation for Ileitis and Colitis, a newly organized chapter of the Southern California area.

Dr. Stanley J. Majcher, gastroenterologist, will discuss the two diseases and answer questions.

The NFIC is a nonprofit research-oriented organization dedicated to finding the cause and cure for ileitis and colitis, general names given to a series of inflammatory diseases of the small and large intestine. Most forms are presently incurable.

Admission and parking for the seminar are free.

Physician to present study

Dr. Stephen D. Proffitt of Pomona will present a medical research paper during the second International Symposium on Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery of the Head and Neck, Sunday through Friday in Chicago.

Dr. Proffitt's research paper discusses his experiences in lip reconstruction after electrical burns.

Covinan finds stepdad dead

A teen-age Covina girl, returning home Thursday afternoon from school, found the body of her stepfather on the bathroom floor, sheriff's deputies reported.

The victim, Walter Thomas Rayno, 47, apparently died of a heart attack, authorities said, but an autopsy was ordered. He had been under treatment for chest pains.

The victim was discovered by Cynthia I. Lindsay when she returned home shortly after 2 p.m. She said she heard the sound of water running, but got no response when she called to her stepfather. Finally, she opened the door and found his body.

Room for airport but Aerojet loses status

A general plan for the Chino Hills, which could be modified to include a much-discussed airport, has been adopted by the Chino City Council.

Chino Hills presently is under county jurisdiction, but since the area will ultimately be within the city's sphere of influence, approval by Chino was necessary. County supervisors already have okayed the plan.

The 40-square-mile area, which may be annexed to Chino in the future, is bounded by the Corona Expressway on the east, Riverside County line on the south, and the Los Angeles-Orange County lines on the west and north.

No opposition was voiced during a public hearing, and the plan was unanimously adopted by the council Tuesday.

The proposed Chino Hills airport, acknowledged by officials to be "the most controversial issue" in the general plan area, is not included in the land-use plan.

However, officials said, the plan was drawn up in such a way that it could accommodate the airport.

A feasibility study presently is being conducted on the airport, but it may take several years to complete, officials say. The airport would be located in the southerly portion of the hills, astride the line.

Another major concern is the existing heavy manufacturing use along Sequel Canyon. The plan proposes that Aerojet Corp. be "phased out" because transportation and development of explosives in a residential area is "completely incompatible."

The St. Joseph's Hill of Hope, a proposed 440-acre religious foundation in the Sleepy Hollow area, is a third major land use in the plan. A large religious and medical facility, Hill of Hope is planned to include research hospital facilities, a convent, amphitheatre, hotel, and residences for the elderly.

Generally, the plan will retain the Chino Hills as largely open and undeveloped, or developed to a relatively low residential density. Future proposals must be compatible with existing developments.

Highest density allowed would be four to eight units per acre, covering only a small portion of the project, near Carbon Canyon and Pipeline Avenue.

Lowest density, one unit per five to 10 acres, covers 58 per cent of the area.

Four neighborhood commercial centers are proposed in the plan. They would contain a market and other convenience stores.

A network of bridge trails also is planned, including a major one along the San Antonio Wash adjacent to Corona Expressway leading from Prado Regional Park to Bonelli Park.

Small secondary trails will cross the hills toward the west along the wash. Bridge trails also will connect with existing golf courses at Los Serranos and Western Hills.

The plan's transportation component includes two scenic routes, which will stretch across the hills from the northwest to the southeast. Corona Expressway, the future extension of Dudley Street and Carbon Canyon Road, from the intersection of Dudley to the Orange County line, are designated as scenic highways.

Meanwhile, a plea by the Chino pioneer organization to preserve a downtown building for historical purposes was rejected by the council.

Councilmen agreed with a recommendation by Public Works Director John Gerardi that the Galbreath Building at Sixth and D streets is "unsafe."

The structure, which now houses the Chino Glass Co., is also within the Civic Center site, and is ticketed for demolition.

Gerardi said that since the master plan for the civic center was approved a year ago, and other actions have been taken, such as awarding a contract for construction of the county building, it would be "chaotic" from a timing standpoint to redesign the site.

The building also could not be moved to another area because of "structural inadequacies," Gerardi noted.

He added it would be costly to restore, and Mayor Bob McLeod quoted the price of preservation at $100,000.

Twenty-one members of the Chino Valley Pioneer Association signed petitions, and presented them to the council last month, urging preservation of the building.

Zeke Cortez, a former Chino mayor, indicated he was disappointed by the council's action at Tuesday's meeting. "I'm not surprised by the report, but we felt the building could be re-done."

In other business, councilmen ordered the formation of a maintenance assessment district.

The district would be formed on Mountain Avenue in a new housing tract built by American National Housing Co. of Fountain Valley.

Homeowners will be paying $60 to $80 per year for costs of sprinkler systems, trees, grass, plantings, landscaping, playground equipment and other additions.

French A tests go underground

PARIS (AP) — Defense Minister Yvon Bourges has confirmed that France will conduct underground atomic tests in the South Pacific this year.

In an interview with the news magazine Le Point, Bourges was asked if there would be a test program. His reply was "yes." When the questioner asked how many explosions would be set off, Bourges said "I will not answer you. But you should know there will be several. We are progressing much faster in nuclear armament than everyone believes."

Informed sources reported in February that preparations for underground testing were advancing in strict secrecy around the Mururoa and Fangatofa atolls.

vice to the parish and the community.

Ryan plans to work with Catholic Social Services and continue his preparation for marriage counseling.

Thomas will serve on the staff of the Family Life Bureau in the Archdiocese of Los Angeles in the areas of marriage and programs for divorced men.

Churches still paying lip service to openness

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Secrecy is a declining practice in the churches. They've become increasingly open about their official discussions, decisions and operations. But just as in government, concealment — and at times deceptions — still occur.

In some cases, there are closed meetings, confidential reports, hidden agendas, unrevealed actions.

Yet the churches, like other public and governmental institutions, represent people, are supported by the people's money and the people consequently are entitled to know what goes on, says Richard N. Ostling, president of the Religion News-writers Association.

While the churches generally affirm that principle, he writes in a book issued by Harper and Row, "Secrecy in the Church," they sometimes don't live up to it. Take some recent examples:

—Roman Catholic bishops, at their annual meeting last fall, acted in closed session on a matter of obvious concern both to church members and the public, but afterward wouldn't reveal it. Reporters queried usually candid friends among them, but they wouldn't tell. Then that president, John Cardinal Krol, of Philadelphia, had admonished them to silence.

Finally, however, through one bishop who believed in leveling with the people on an action involving them, the facts were brought out: A committee had been authorized to raise questions with congressional committees to confirmation of Nelson Rockefeller as vice president because of his pro-abortion stand. Only after newsmen dug it out, through a lone bishop against hiding it, was an action on a clearly public issue officially acknowledged.

—In another case, the interdenominational relief agency supported by most major Protestant and Orthodox churches, Church World Service, recently was involved in a policy controversy over whether it should oppose oppressive governing systems overseas as well as doing direct relief work.

An emergency meeting of its 30-member executive board met to consider the dispute, but reporters were barred and official statements afterward were ambiguous. Only later through individual sources was it determined — on a matter of keen church-member concern — that the agency would stick solely to relief-rehabilitation work and avoid partisan conduct about foreign social systems.

—At last year's Campus Crusade "Explo '74" in South Korea, Crusade representatives issued attendance figures of 1.5 million. However, Edward Plowman, the conscientious news editor of the fortnightly, Christianity Today, did a painstaking, systematic count, found the total to be about 260,000. His measurements also determined the maximum, packed capacity of the area occupied to be only about 480,000 — compared to an officially issued total triple that.

"There is nothing hidden but it must be disclosed..." Jesus said. Ostling, the brainy, gentlemanly religion editor of Time magazine, cites this principle in his coolly documented study and adds: "The Christian church has a special claim to be champion of the truth, and the truth is without value if no one knows it."

Emphasizing that church leaders are "accountable to their members," he observes: "Secrecy is based upon a low opinion of the public and ultimately of the individual man."

Although pockets of church secrecy continue, including financial and other data of some groups such as the Christian Scientists, Jehovah's Witnesses, Black Muslims and others, Ostling says, the main trend has been toward greater openness.

Methodist bishops recently opened their meetings to news coverage. U.S. Catholic bishops did so earlier, in 1972, through persuasion of an alert communications office. Ostling, who took part in negotiations leading to the step, concentrates most of his book on policies of the Catholic Church, until recently more secretive about operations than Protestant bodies.

However, as Ostling points out, U.S. Catholicism now is applying its "recognition of the people's right to know squarely to the administration of the church itself."

Whales have all the bones that humans do, minus those of the lower limbs, says Warren Zeiller, curator of the Miami Seaquarium. The total for a whale is about 194 bones.

Episcopal court urges priest's admonishment

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Episcopal church ecclesiastical court recommended 3 to 2 today that the Rev. William A. Wendt be admonished for allowing an irregularly ordained woman priest to lead a communion service in his church.

The penalty recommended by the court was the least severe available other than acquittal.

The divided recommendation will be delivered to Bishop William F. Creighton of the Episcopal diocese of Washington. Bishop Creighton has 30 days in which to pronounce punishment.

The court could have recommended penalties as severe as removal from the priesthood. Bishop Creighton does not have authority to impose a more severe punishment than the admonition recommended by the court.

Father Wendt has the right to appeal, but he told newsmen he has made no decision.

The court's 20-page opinion made no mention of the related case of Bishop John A. Allin of New York, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church.

Bishop Allin declined to appear as a witness at the Rev. Mr. Wendt's trial earlier this month and the court then declared him guilty of contempt.

Bishop Allin faces possible trial on charges of violating church law by refusing to comply with a subpoena to testify at the Rev. Mr. Wendt's trial.

The Rev. Mr. Wendt was accused of disobeying an order from his bishop that he not permit the Rev. Allison Cheek to preside Nov. 10 at a communion service at St. Stephen's and the Incarnation Episcopal Church in Northwest Washington.

She was one of 11 women ordained in Philadelphia previously in procedure which church authorities have ruled was irregular.

The Rev. Mr. Wendt maintained that Bishop Creighton had only requested that he not go through with the service, but the court majority found that the Rev. Mr. Wendt was required not to permit her to act as a priest.

"We therefore, in all charity and brotherly love, recommend that the bishop of Washington admonish the accused, the Rev. William A. Wendt, for disobeying his godly admonition and we further recommend that the bishop of Washington forbid him to permit any person whose ordination is not in conformity with the canons of the church to exercise his or her ministry in his parish," the majority said.

The chief judge, Llewellyn C. Thomas and Janet C. McCaa issued a strong dissent in which they said Allison Cheek was properly ordained as a priest.

"In order to convict this case, it is necessary to construct 'double whammy' in which Allison Cheek is deprived of her status without due process of law not once but twice," they said.

"She was ordained a priest in Philadelphia," the dissenters added. "First, the bishop of Virginia, without ecclesiastical trial, reduces her to the status of a deacon. Second, the bishop of Washington, for the sake of collegiality, describes and treats her as a deacon here. They cannot do this even after a trial."

REHEARSING FOR MUSICAL — Getting ready for their musical presentation Sunday at the First Baptist Church in Pomona are Linda Leis, seated, Nancy Blair, Gurnett Ferguson and Mitchell Bleuthman.

1st Baptist musical programs

A double musical event will be offered at the First Baptist Church of Pomona at 6 p.m. Sunday, when two choirs of the church will perform.

The Celestial Choir, a 75-voice primary age group directed by Janelle Bulza, will present a new musical, "And That's the Truth."

Flo Price, the composer, will join the children as a guest soloist playing the part of the mother, and her husband, Bob, will play the role of the father.

The new Day Choir, a 75-voice junior high age group under the direction of E. Martine Craig, will sing "Finders, Keepers." The musical covers the parables of the lost sheep, the lost coin and the prodigal son.

'SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC' — The three Bangle children, from left, Derrick, 8, Marie, 4, and Pat, 11, practice a song for the Sunday school musical, "A Sunday School Picnic," to be presented June 13 and June 15 at the Upland Nazarene Church. Sixty singers will perform.

Secrets of river on film

A documentary motion picture, "Footprints in Stone," will be shown at the Calvary Baptist Church in La Verne at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Produced by Films for Christ Association, the picture depicts a research team's battle to learn the secrets of the Paluxy, the fastest flowing river in Texas, and the geological timetable it carves in its banks.

Many theologians think that timetable affirms the coexistence of man and dinosaur, supporting the belief that all things were created within the same timespan by God.

Witnesses to convene

Some 1,500 Jehovah's Witnesses will represent the valley at two district conventions at Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles, said C. K. Spieth, presiding minister of the Pomona congregation.

The assemblies will be held at Dodger Stadium on June 26, to 29 and July 10 to 13. Two sessions will be held each day, at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

The programs will feature four Bible dramas, lectures and general discussion periods, said Spieth.

Library use rises

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — In the opinion of San Rafael librarian Vivian Smith, Marin County residents are taking out library books in greater numbers this year, prompted in part by hard times and the high cost of buying books.

In the month of February this year circulation for the Marin County library and all its branches reached 68,231, compared with 60,915 for the same period in 1974.

Some of the increase can be attributed to the fact that people can't afford outside entertainment, the librarian noted. The cost of a book, "about $9," is a factor. "I am sure the recession has something to do with it."

3 Nazarene choirs in 'Sunday School picnic'

Children and adult choirs will present the musical, "A Sunday School Picnic," at the Upland Nazarene Church June 13 at 7:30 p.m. and June 15 at 6 p.m.

The musical, written by Bill Gaither especially for children, includes such songs as "The King Is Coming" and "Something Beautiful."

Presenting the program will be the primary and junior choirs and the "Generation Gap Singers," an adult group. These will include some 60 singers.

Glenn Barfell will direct the program, which has a Sunday school picnic setting.

Special numbers will be sung by Donna Aleman,

Derrick Bangle, Jeff Johnson, Larry Barfell, Karla Wilson, Stacy Armstrong, Kathy Wilson, Jack Schoenbachler, Doug Wilson, Alice ngle, Darlene Guerrero, Pat and Marie Bangle, Lori Breneman, Chris Johnson, Debbie Barfell, a Todd Waters and Karen Ferre. The public is invited to both performances.

Salt still the cheapest way to remove ice from road

MARYSVILLE (AP) — The cheapest way to clear winter's ice and snow off mountain roads is the traditional spreading of salt on the highways, a state report says.

Salting the roads may also cause the least damage to the environment of any of the methods of ice removal the highways, the draft environmental impact report prepared by the California Department of Transportation said Wednesday.

California Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger said in a January opinion that state law requires the state to assess the environmental impact of the procedure.

The salt used on the roads has killed or damaged trees and other vegetation along state highways, particularly in the area around Lake Tahoe, critics of the practice have said.

"The possibility of damage to roadside vegetation...and to aquatic life and water quality" were the possible adverse effects of salting, the report said.

But, it added, "The proposed action is the most economical and effective method known...and may emerge as the least environmentally damaging of the presently available options."

The report listed five alternative ways to clear the roads:

Using sand or cinders; limiting the use of salt to curves and intersections; limiting the use of salt to areas where environmental damage is unlikely; using other ice removal agents; and continued use of salt.

Pat May, spokeswoman for the department's Marysville office, said the draft report will be held until July 28 for comments from the public. Then a final report, including the comments, will be published.

Ms. May said that two studies of the effects of salting roadways on plants and aquatic life are underway. But she said results of studies are not due until late this year at the earliest.

Cruiser L.A. headed for scrap yard

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Only the ship's bell is going to survive from the famous World War II cruiser that Los Angeles residents paid for with a $80 million bond drive.

The final voyage of the USS Los Angeles will be to the scrap yard. The fate was sealed when a local Terminal Island scrapping firm made purchase Wednesday as high bidder.

Actually, the 675-foot, vessel barely made it into the Second World War since it was commissioned in July 1945 near the end of battle.

But the Navy made it its flagship for the Seventh Fleet in the Pacific and it earned five battle stars during the Korean War. Lately it had been a member of the mothball fleet in San Diego.

It will be scrapped in about two months.

Ryan settles for two-hitter

ANAHEIM (AP) — For 5 2/3 innings Friday night, Nolan Ryan flirted with history. Then Henry Aaron, who has made a bit of history himself, stepped in and shattered some dreams.

Ryan, who only five days ago became the second pitcher to hurl four no-hitters, was trying—intentionally, he said—to become the first one to pitch a fifth.

But with two outs in the sixth inning, the 41-year-old Aaron, baseball's greatest home run hitter ever, stepped in and slapped a clean single to left field.

As it turned out, Ryan and the California Angels had to settle for a two-hit shutout and a 6-0 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers, a triumph powered by Lee Stanton's four runs batted in.

"If I'm going to give up a hit," the 28-year-old Texan drawled, "I might as well give it up to one of the greatest hitters in the game. I can't think of anyone more appropriate."

Then, with a laugh, the right-hander added: "Now he can look back on his career and say, 'I was the guy who broke up Nolan Ryan's no-hitter.'"

"I was definitely trying to throw a no-hitter," admitted Ryan, who in the past has said he doesn't purposefully go out to pitch them. "We had a good crowd here and I realize most of the fans came out to see if I could do it."

Ryan, 10-3, struck out six batters to raise his major league leading total to 102 en route to the 101st triumph of his meteoric career.

The two-out single in the sixth inning by Aaron ended Ryan's dreams of surpassing Sandy Koufax' record of four no-hitters and matching Johnny Vander Meer's feat of two in a row.

It was a hot grounder that whizzed past the mound and eluded shortstop Billy Smith who was playing deep in the hole against the pull-hitting home run king.

"It was a clean hit, there was no doubt about that," said California Manager Dick Williams. "Billy was playing him exactly where we wanted him to play Aaron, shading him toward third base."

Milwaukee's only other hit came on George Scott's one-out single to center in the eighth inning.

Last Sunday Ryan pitched his fourth no-hitter, striking out nine Baltimore batters en route to a 1-0 victory over the Orioles.

But on Friday night, after 15 2/3 innings of hitless ball, the 28-year-old right-hander had to settle for the seventh two-hitter of his major league career and his second this season.

While Ryan had the Anaheim Stadium crowd of 29,513 on the edge of their collective seats until Aaron's hit, the Angels had Milwaukee starter Jim Slaton, 3-7, on the ropes right from the start.

California battered him for four runs in the first inning, three coming on Stanton's bases-loaded double. Stanton then clouted his fourth home run of the season off him in the sixth. Slaton, 3-7, gave up all nine of California's hits before reliever Tom Hausman took over in the seventh.

Aaron was batting against Ryan for the first time as an American Leaguer. The last time they faced each other was in 1971 when Aaron was on the Atlanta Braves and Ryan was pitching for the New York Mets—and Aaron hit a home run off him.

After Aaron's hit, Briggs walked but Porter forced him at second on a routine grounder to Remy, the second baseman.

Before the single, the Angels—mainly center fielder Mickey Rivers and Remy—were giving Ryan some fielding that seemed to have been nothing short of magical.

With two outs in the fourth inning, Briggs sent a low liner to center but Rivers came flying in and made a kneetop catch.

And in the fifth, Porter, the leadoff batter, sent a wicked shot that appeared destined to make it into right field for a single. But Remy galloped about 40 feet to his left, made a diving, tumbling, sprawling stop and, while in a sitting position, threw to first for the out.

With two away, Ryan proceeded to walk Pedro Garcia on a full-count pitch and Kurt Bevacqua on a 3-1 pitch, then wild-pitched the runners to second and third. But Yount lined to Smith at short to get Ryan out of that jam.

The Angels made it 5-0 in the fourth inning when Stanton singled to left, was bunted to second by Ellie Rodriguez and scored on Nettles' single to center, then Stanton led off the sixth inning with his fourth homer of the season.

Marshall gets save for L.A.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The great first inning throw by Joe Ferguson that cut a run down at the plate and three scoreless innings in relief by Mike Marshall helped the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 3-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Friday night.

It was Marshall's first game in more than a month, and the victory snapped a four game Phillies winning streak.

The Phillies had runners at second and third with one out in the first inning when Greg Luzinski lifted a fly to medium right-center field. Dodgers' center fielder Jim Wynn and right fielder Joe Ferguson converged on the ball.

Phillies' Coach Bill DeMars knew Wynn was having trouble throwing. He thought Wynn would handle the play. DeMars said that even if Ferguson caught the ball, he intended to send Dave Cash home, because he felt the right fielder was not in good position to make the play.

DeMars figured wrong on two counts.

In the outfield, Wynn twice called for the ball, but Ferguson said he called Wynn off with a sharp, "I'll take it."

Ferguson, who divides his time between catching and the outfield, said he had all night to get under the ball and it was an easy play for him.

"I had the momentum toward the plate," said Ferguson, whose perfect throw to catcher Steve Yeager nailed Cash easily.

That was a big run. It broke up a potential big inning for Philadelphia, and in the end it was the decider for the Dodgers in a one-run victory.

Marshall, the superb reliever of the Dodgers, has been sidelined since May 9, nursing a rib pull. He allowed just one hit, striking out three and walking one. In the ninth with the tying run at first, the reliever struck out Dick Allen and pinchhitter Ollie Brown to end the game.

"Walt (Alston) said he would take it easy with me when I came back, give me some room," Marshall joked after saving the one runner for the Dodgers.

"I didn't feel bad, but I didn't feel good. I've gone out with a lot less, and most of the time I've gone out with a lot more."

Marshall said the rib on the left side didn't hurt, but then it didn't hurt May 3, when he tried to come back the first time from the original April 19 injury. He tore the rib again on May 9.

"I felt as good before and it (the rib) didn't hold," Marshall noted cautiously. "I worked it out Monday and Wednesday in full belief that it would hold."

Marshall said he had a lot of trouble keeping his favorite pitch, the screwball, in the strike zone.

"I'll be ready to pitch tomorrow (Saturday) night," Marshall declared.

The Phillies took a 1-0 lead in the fourth when Jay Johnstone opened with a triple. He scored on a towering fly to center by Luzinski that sent Wynn to the warning track.

Los Angeles came back in the fifth to go ahead 2-1 on three straight hits and an error by Luzinski in left.

Ferguson opened with a single to left. Steve Yeager then singled, and when Luzinski bobbled the ball in left, Ferguson scored all the way from first, with Yeager winding up at second on the error. Rick Auerbach then doubled home Yeager.

ALMOST ANOTHER FOR RYAN

Nolan Ryan got the Angel fans excited Friday night at Anaheim Stadium when he pitched hitless ball through 5 2/3 innings against Milwaukee. He was seeking his second straight no-hitter and his fifth in his career as a pro. He ended up with a two-hitter.

NCAA track and field

Crawford takes 100

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Hasley Crawford of Eastern Michigan overcame a tremendous start by Clifford Outlin to win the 100-yard dash Friday evening at the National Collegiate Athletic Association track and field championships.

The powerful 6-foot-1 Crawford of Trinidad made his move with just 20 yards to go to catch the smallest Auburn athlete. Crawford, the NCAA and American Amateur Union indoor champion, flashed across the finish line in 9.35 with his right fist raised in triumph, while Outlin followed in 9.41.

Well back in the field midway through the race was defending champion Reggie Jones of Tennessee, who had a poor start and finished with a rush to grab third in 9.44.

Crawford gave a forewarning of his victory here last week in Trinidad when he ran the fastest 100-meter dash in history with a wind-aided 9.8, second to Steve Williams' 9.8.

Just seconds earlier Hans Hoglund exploded in the shot put to become the seventh man in history to break the 70-foot barrier. Hoglund, a 6-4, 280-pounder from Texas-El Paso had a toss of 70-0 to surpass the NCAA meet record of 67-9 1/4 set by Randy Matson of Texas A&M at this stadium in 1967.

Hoglund, of Sweden, also broke his national record by more than three feet. He won the 1973 shot put title but was only third last year.

The meet opened as bulky Boris Djerassi of Northeastern stunned defending champion Peter Farmer to win the hammer throw and deal another blow to Texas-El Paso's bid for an NCAA track title.

The 5-10 1/2, 230-pound Djerassi, a senior who won the IC4A title this year, had a winning throw of 225-8, beating Farmer by three inches.

Djerassi, born in Israel but an American since the age of 10, defeated Australian Farmer after trailing for most of the competition. It was considered a huge upset since Farmer was perhaps the biggest favorite in the 21 events at this 54th NCAA meet.

Farmer had won the hammer last year with a throw of 230-6 and Djerassi's throw was a career record by more than three feet.

UTEP had been the favorite, along with Southern California, Brigham Young and UCLA, but lost potential points when high jumper Greg Joy failed to advance in Thursday night's qualifying.

Bobby Allison grabs pole spot

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Bobby Allison, gunning for his third straight NASCAR victory in Southern California, grabbed the pole position Friday for Sunday's 400-mile Grand National stock car road race at Riverside International Raceway.

Allison averaged 110.753 miles an hour on the up-and-downhill 2.54-mile course in an AMC Matador and was more than a mile-an-hour faster than the second fastest qualifier, Richard Petty.

The pole speed was a record for the event, bettering a speed of 110.027 set by Petty two years ago and was the second straight time Allison has taken the fastest qualifying speed here.

He won the Western 500 in January over this track after taking the pole at 110.382.

Petty, in a 1975 Dodge, ran at 109.553 to share the front row with Allison.

Daytona 500 winner Benny Parsons of Ellerbe, N.C. qualified third, taking the inside of the second row with a speed of 109.104 in a 1975 Chevrolet.

Dave Marcis, of Skyland, N.C., in a 1974 Charger was fourth fastest at 108.966 and George Follmer of Huntington Harbour, Calif. ran his 1975 Chevrolet to the No. 5 spot with a speed of 108.654 in the car's first effort to make a starting lineup.

Californians held the next two spots with Jimmy Insolo of Mission Hills sixth best with a speed of 108.537 in a 1974 Chevrolet and Ray Elder, the racing farmer from Caruthers, seventh 108.391 in a 1974 Dodge.

Darrell Waltrip, of Franklin, Tenn. qualified eighth in his first try on a road course, averaging 107.984 in a 1975 Chevrolet.

Allison, the veteran from Hueytown, Ala., won the last race of the 1974 NACAR campaign, the Times 500 at Ontario, Calif. last fall, before winning the Western 500-mile road race here in January. He also won a leg of the International Race of Champions at Riverside last fall.

Jennings reaches State Meet finals

SAN DIEGO — The list of valley entrants for today's CIF State Track and Field Meet here at Balboa Stadium was trimmed to three Friday afternoon at the preliminaries.

Ontario High long jumper Marcus Jennings remained in the competition with a leap of 23 feet, 6 1/4 inches — nearly a foot shorter than the mark he won last weekend's Master Meet with.

Marcus was the second-leading qualifier behind Fontana High's Paul Wilson, who cleared 23 feet, 10 1/4 inches.

The other two qualifiers from the valley came in the girls' competition, where Upland's Linda Hightower advanced in the quarter mile and Chino's Sherri Morris made the cut in the high jump.

Jennings took three attempts in the Friday preliminaries, fouling in his first try and then clearing 23-1 and 23-6 1/4 the other two times.

His best mark of the year came in the Masters Meet, which he won with a leap of 24 feet, 5 1/4 inches.

Miss Hightower placed third in her heat of the 440, being clocked in 58.8 seconds. The winner of the heat was Kathy Smock of Barstow in 57.3 seconds.

Miss Morris was one of nine girls who advanced to the finals after clearing 5 feet, 2 inches in the high jump.

Not making it into the finals were Ganesha's Lloyd Jones in the 120 high hurdles, Upland's Cornelia "Corny" Sonnenburg in the girls 80 yard low hurdles, and Claremont's Jennie Stary in the girls long jump.

Jones finished fifth in his heat of the high hurdles with a time of 14.4 seconds — which ties his best time for the season.

"Corny" finished sixth in her heat of the 80 lows in 11.3 seconds. The winner of that heat was Jodi Anderson of L.A. Washington in 10.6 seconds.

A distance for Miss Stary was not reported, but still did not make the top nine qualifiers.

Action in the finals today are scheduled to get underway at 12 p.m.

No frustrations in '75 for Parsons

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

RIVERSIDE — For Bennie Parsons, 1975 has been as good so far as 1974 was bad.

Parson's, one of the favorites in Sunday's Tuborg 400 at Riverside Raceway, won the NASCAR driving championship in 1973. Last year he could hardly finish a race let alone win. This year he brings the Daytona 500 championship with him to Southern California.

Could he really have come that close to quitting?

"Yes, I really did," the slender southerner replied. "I left Ontario (OMS) last year after the Times 500 (in November) very, very depressed. I guess it was just the climax of going through a year with one frustration after another."

Parsons finished 35th in that race and completed only 27 laps.

"The biggest thing last year," he explained, "was simply that the car wouldn't run competitively. At Talladega (Ala.) I managed to stay in the same lap as (David) Pearson. He was first and I was second. We both went into the pits for fuel with about 10 laps to go."

"I beat him out by about three seconds," Parsons continued, "and at Talladega that's a bunch. But it took him just about a lap and a half to run me down. You know I wasn't going to win. He was going to beat me because he just had much more in the way of equipment than I had."

That was an example of what happened IF Parsons managed to finish.

"We went through about 15 engines last year," he recalled with a frown. "Seems like every time we'd put one together, it'd blow up. We couldn't finish a race because the car wasn't running competitively."

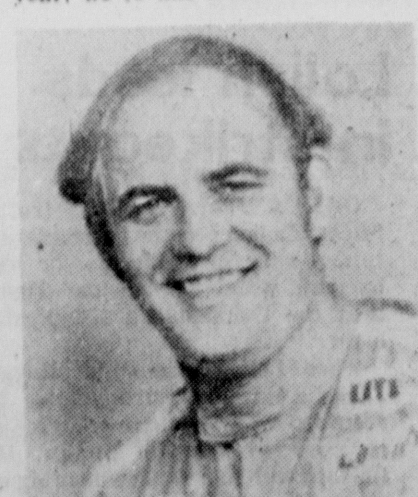

Although Parsons estimated his operation spent approximately half a million dollars last year, Parsons felt something had to be done. So he went to car owner L. G. DeWitt.

"I told Mr. DeWitt that we were either going to get in or get out. I said we had to find parts some place that would make the car run faster because other people are doing it with the same equipment."

Parsons is driving a Chevrolet again this year so he was asked what made the difference?

"We changed people," was the reply. "We stayed with the same company, but we got Waddell Wilson to build our engines. He's been one of the top engine builders in the South for many years."

"We got better parts, better engines," Parsons continued. "We went in different directions but we didn't do anything radical. But this year, we've had trouble with about

Prince Thou Art may be tough Belmont is to day

NEW YORK (AP) — If Prince Thou Art flashes his Florida form in New York Saturday, he is going to be very tough in the 1½-mile Belmont Stakes, trainer Lou Rondinello said Friday.

Prince Thou Art came from way off the lead and won an allowance race at Hialeah, closed fast to finish second to Foolish Pleasure in the Flamingo at Hialeah, then came on to win the Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park. But he never was a factor in the Kentucky Derby, finishing sixth, nor in the Preakness, winding up fourth.

Among his eight opponents in the Belmont will be Kentucky Derby winner Foolish Pleasure; Master Derby, fourth in the Derby and first in the Preakness; Diabolo, third in both races, and Avatar, second in the Derby and fifth in the Preakness.

If all nine 3-year-olds go to the post, each under 126 pounds, at about 5:35 p.m. EDT, the 107th Belmont will be worth $193,600, with $116,160 to the winner. Television coverage by CBS will run from 5-6 p.m. EDT.

"The horse is sharp, and if he doesn't beat them, it's just that he ain't good enough," said Rondinello of Prince Thou Art, who is owned by John Galbreath. Rondinello and Galbreath won the Preakness and Belmont last year with Little Current, a stretch runner who had finished fifth in the Derby.

The trainer said Prince Thou Art's drills for, and his race in, the Kentucky Derby were very disappointing, but he showed improvement in the Preakness. "Now, we're hoping that he is all the way back..." said Rondinello.

Prince Thou Art worked three-eighths of a mile in a leisurely 36 4/5 Friday on a track turned sloppy by overnight rain.

"I am confident he can handle an off track," said Rondinello.

But the weather forecast is sunny, with the temperature in the high 70s and a near zero chance of rain. If so, the track should be fast for the Belmont.

An hour-long rainstorm forced cancellation of the final five races on Friday's nine-race program, but barring further rain, the track was expected to be in good shape for the prestigious Belmont Stakes.

An off track should benefit Master Derby more than the others. The Preakness winner won an allowance race at a mile and 40 yards in the mud during the winter and also won the 1½-mile Blue Grass Stakes in a sea of slop.

Joining the five veterans of both of the first two races of the Triple Crown series will be two colts who ran in the Preakness—Jersey Derby winner

Singh, who was sixth, and Just the Time, who was ninth—and Nalees Rialto and Syllabus, both of whom will be making their stakes debuts.

Syllabus and Just the Time will run as a Johnny Campo trained entry.

A crowd of about 50,000 is expected at Belmont.

In other races on Saturday, Bravest Roman is a likely choice in the $100,000-added Illinois Derby at Sportsman's Park since Bombay Duck was withdrawn. Bombay Duck will run, instead, in the $25,000-added Long Branch Stakes at Monmouth Park.

Fifteen horses are entered for the 1½-mile Illinois Derby. Mrs. John A. Morris' Bravest Roman has only one stakes victory, in the six-furlong Paul Revere at Suffolk.

Bombay Duck will share, top weight of 121 with Real Value and Winter Fox in the mile turf test at Monmouth Park, which lists 15 3-year-olds to go to the post.

Ga Hai, 119, was favored in the $50,000-added, 1½-mile Rolling Green Handicap on the grass at Golden Gate Fields; Stardust Mel, 125, heads a field of seven in the $50,000-added 1½-mile Bel Air Handicap at Hollywood Park and Ace Commander, 123, will be seeking his second straight triumph against 13 other Michigan-breds in the $50,000-added Frontier Handicap at 11-16 miles at Detroit Race Course.

Other Saturday races include the $24,000 Citrus Handicap at Calder, the $25,000 George Brandeis Handicap at Ak-Sar-Ben and the $25,000 Toddler Stakes for 2-year-old Maryland-bred fillies at Bowie.

Three-year-old grass stars from the east, Buffalo Lark, Bemo and Outdoors, are expected to go in Sunday's showcase, the $125,000 Hollywood Invitational, which will be run at 1½ miles at Hollywood Park. Leading West Coast prospects are Pass The Glass, Captain Cee Jay, Kirrany, Blue Times and Chief Hawk Ear.

STARS TO SHINE — The annual Hollywood Stars Night is set for Dodger Stadium June 14. Among those to appear will be Jerry Lewis

Carew is one of best

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Rod Carew is leaving his mark on baseball as one of the best hitters ever to play the game.

He blasted Yankee ace Catfish Hunter for two home runs and an RBI single Thursday, accounting for all of Minnesota's four runs that day. Hunter didn't have trouble with any other Twin, however, and New York won 7-4.

"Carew? If he has a weakness, I've never found it," said Hunter.

Carew is hitting a blistering .425 this season and appears well on his way to a fourth consecutive American League batting title, and his fifth over-all.

He's started talk of turning the baseball clock back over three decades. Not since Ted Williams hit .406 in 1941 has the .400 plateau been reached.

"There's just no way to pitch Carew," said Hunter. "He's got the quickest wrists I've ever seen. It seems like I've never gotten him out."

It was clear Thursday how much Hunter respects Carew's bat. After hitting two home runs and a single, Carew was intentionally walked his fourth time up.

And Carew not only is becoming one of the most celebrated players in baseball, he's putting in a bid to become controversial as well.

Sunday, he said he's not interested in playing in this year's All-Star game. He has played in the All-Star game every year in his eight-year major league career.

Carew blasted Dick Williams, the manager of the American League team at the 1974 contest in Pittsburgh, who lifted Carew in the bottom of the third inning.

"The fans elect me to represent them, and it's an honor, sure," he said. "But, when I take the time off, the managers let me hit one time and then yank me out. Who needs it?"

The 29-year-old Carew was criticized last year for fielding errors. But so far this season he's played second base as well as anyone in the game.

His wife, Marilyn, is expecting their second child early next month and Carew wants to be home. He said he'll play in the July 15 All-Star game at Milwaukee only if his wife wants him to.

"I couldn't care less who manages the team. It's entirely up to Marilyn," he said. "It's all a bunch of politics anyhow."

Kings to ink M. Dionne?

DETROIT (AP) — The Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League are near signing former Detroit Red Wings captain Marcel Dionne, it was reported Friday.

Alex Delvecchio, general manager and coach of the Red Wings, said the Kings are "the only team that has shown interest in the last four or five days."

The Detroit News said it has learned from a source close to Kings' General Manager Jake Milford that owner Jack Kent Cooke wants the high-scoring Dionne, who played out his option with Detroit.

Cooke, a multimillionaire who also owns the Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association, probably can better the four-year, $1 million offer made by the Red Wings and rejected by Dionne.

Connors is upset

CHICHESTER, England (AP) — Jimmy Connors, the world's top tennis star, was defeated by South Africa's Bernie Mitton 7-6, 6-1 in a stunning upset at the Rothmans Grass Court Tennis Tournament Friday.

Connors, who had coasted to four victories in three days at this tuneup for the Wimbledon Championships, had reached the semifinals earlier Friday by eliminating John Bartlett of Australia 6-2, 6-4.

But against Mitton, he lost the first set on a tiebreaker and then dropped the second by a wide margin.

The 22-year-old American star took his defeat philosophically.

"I came here for match practice and I've had five matches so it served my purpose," he said. "I have two more weeks to go before beginning defense of my Wimbledon title and at two o'clock two weeks from Monday, I'll be ready. Watch me go then."

The loss to Mitton came in Connors' fourth singles match in two days. He had to double up on his matches because he was competing in doubles in the Italian Open earlier in the week and did not arrive at the Rothmans tournament until Wednesday.

Connors was expected to win the tournament easily. He had entered this grass court test so that he could get pre-Wimbledon practice on that surface, passing up the clay court French Championships.

Connors is scheduled to play next in the John Player Tournament at Nottingham starting June 16 but he has threatened to pull out of that competition to protest warnings issued by tournament officials to his doubles partner, Ilie Nastase of Romania. Tournament officials said Friday they expect both Connors and Nastase to perform in the $103,000 John Player event.

"I plan to practice next week, I'm not saying where, before going to Nottingham," said Connors.

In the first set against Mitton, Connors took a 3-1 lead in the tiebreaker. But suddenly the South African turned the tide, winning six straight points to take the set.

In the second set, Mitton took a 3-0 lead and held onto it with powerful serves, passing shots and lobs.

Connors survived four match points before losing. "I'm not too annoyed about this defeat," Connors said later. "I'm so happy to be playing again on grass. I had lost two matches at this time last year and I've already lost to Newcombe on Jan. 1, so I'm well on schedule."

Aztecs sign JC cager

SAN DIEGO — Craig Smoak, a 6-7, 210 power forward, has agreed to play basketball at San Diego State University next season.

Smoak will enter as a junior after playing last season at McLennan Community College in Waco, Texas. At McLennan, Smoak averaged 21.3 points and 13.7 rebounds a game. He was first team all conference and second team All-Region.

Lewis U. retains NAIA baseball title

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — The championship game of the NAIA World Series of college baseball Thursday night was a rerun of last year's finals as Lewis of Illinois edged Sam Houston State of Texas 2-1.

Lewis, the first team to win the NAIA baseball title two years in a row, also beat Sam Houston in the 1974 double-elimination tournament by one run.

Don Markelz pitched a five-hitter for Lewis, fanning 13 batters and walking only one. He was named the tournament's most valuable player.

Three of the hits against him came in the eighth when the Bearkats scored their lone run.

Also named to the all-tournament team from Lewis were Paul Stevens and Ray Crowley, in the infield; outfielder George DiMatteo, and catcher Rich Baranak. Willis Stewart of Sam Houston was named the tournament's top fielder.

Both the Olympic Development League and the Womens Division will play doubleheaders preceding the pro games.

"With the addition of the Womens Division, which I think will be a boon to womens basketball, we have the finest off-season basketball program in the nation," said Marquis.

For summer basketball

Pro stars are ready

LOS ANGELES — Executive Director Richard Marquis has announced that the opening date for the Southern California Pro Basketball Summer League has been rescheduled for Saturday evening, July 5 in the Cal State University Los Angeles Gymnasium. Originally the league was to open on Sunday evening, June 15 (Father's Day).

"We have rescheduled the league opener in order to accommodate both the NBA and ABA," announced Executive Director Richard Marquis.

"The NBA general managers have requested that we move back our opening date. The request was officially adopted at the NBA meetings in San Francisco and we were happy to change our date."

"As it turns out, the change in date is good for everybody since the ABA draft is scheduled for June 16, which would have been one day after our league would have began," informed Marquis.

The League, beginning its fifth season, will be played on Tuesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings, with games starting at 7 p.m. and 8:45 p.m., and will conclude competition, with the playoffs, in mid-August.

"We expect this years league to be the best ever," commented Executive Director Richard T. Marquis.

enthusiasm over the league. We are now sanctioned by the NBA and are being subsidized. We really cemented our relationship with the NBA at their meetings during the all-star break."

NBA teams expected to participate this year include the Los Angeles Lakers, Milwaukee Bucks, Phoenix Suns, New Orleans Jazz, Houston Rockets, plus a few surprise entries that will be announced later. Many top individual players will be placed on the NBA Stars.

ABA champion Kentucky Colonels will represent the junior circuit along with the popular ABA Stars.

July 5th will mark the return of the United States Olympic Development High School Basketball League. The League, beginning its second season, features the top graduated seniors and underclassmen in California.

"Thanks to the California Basketball High School Classic, the Olympic Development League is nationally known. Not only are we going to feature our own prep talent, but we plan to bring in several blue-chippers that played in the Classic and from elsewhere," informed Marquis. The League plays under international rules.

July 5th will also initiate the newest division in this basketball world, when Marquis unveils the new Womens Division. This new area will feature the best college and high school players in California and from around the country.

Both the Olympic Development League and the Womens Division will play doubleheaders preceding the pro games.

"With the addition of the Womens Division, which I think will be a boon to womens basketball, we have the finest off-season basketball program in the nation," said Marquis.

Aztecs host Earthquakes

TORRANCE — One of the keenest rivalries in the North American Soccer League will be fired up again tonight as the Aztecs host the San Jose Earthquakes on "Ball Night" at El Camino College Stadium in a crucial Western Division encounter. Kickoff is at 8 p.m.

Hundreds of soccer balls will be kicked into the stands by Aztec players at 7:30 p.m. to get the evening off, and a special appearance by Franco Columbu, the reigning "Mr. Universe," will highlight the halftime show.

The Aztecs will be gunning to make it two in a row over the Earthquakes, who finished only one game behind Los Angeles in 1974 and were involved in the most exciting game the Aztecs have played this season. That was the 2-1 sudden death overtime victory in San Jose to start the regular season.

Last year the Aztecs never beat San Jose and head coach Terry Fisher wants very badly to make it two straight over the Bay area rivals.

"They certainly would like to get a measure of revenge against us, but we need to win as much as they do to stay in the divisional race," observed Fisher. "We certainly don't want to lose to them and they feel the same way about us."

The Aztecs moved into third place in the West with a 4-1 victory last week over the Sounders at El Camino to even their record at 4-4. Forward Uri Banhofer scored two of the Los Angeles goals and assisted on another to lead the locals in their biggest win of the season. Banhofer was chosen to the weekly all-NASL team for his outstanding play against Seattle. Jose Lopez scored and had an assist and Julie Vee had a goal to help pace the locals.

"We played our best game of the season against Seattle," added Fisher. "We could have beaten anybody in our league the way we played, but we have to do that consistently in order to be a contender."

The Aztecs tied two club records with four goals and four assists. The previous marks were set against Denver last season. Banhofer also tied Doug McMillan's individual mark with five points in one game (two points for each goal, one for an assist).

Before meeting San Jose, the Aztecs travel to Denver on Wednesday to play the Dynamos, who are second in the Central Division with a 3-4 record. That game will be on KKOP-FM and KWKW-AM at 7 p.m.

AZTEC NOTES—Bernie Fagan, a midfielder-defender, has been signed by the Aztecs and will be available for the game in Denver. Fagan played with Seattle earlier this season and is from Liverpool, England. "He will add strength to our team as a starter and could give us depth on the bench also," said Fisher. "Our injury situation is clearing up, and with Miguel Brigida and Fagan, we're in good shape physically for the first time in awhile."

Brigida, the leading scorer in the Greater Los Angeles Soccer League this past season with 21 goals, was signed last week and is expected to help the Aztecs in the forward line.

Tonight's preliminary will be the Northern and Southern California AYSO all-star game beginning at 6 p.m. From those teams a squad will be chosen to tour Europe.

Captain Michael Ferguson is still nursing a pulled hamstring and is questionable for Denver. John Mason, who missed the last month with blood poisoning, should be in uniform.

Stags duo eliminated

KANSAS CITY — Claremont-Mudd's doubles team of John Blomberg and Dave Waterhouse were eliminated here in the semifinals of the National Intercollegiate Athletic Association tennis tournament Thursday.

Blomberg and Waterhouse, who were third-seeded in the tourney, lost in two sets to eighth-seeded Benny Sims and Glenn Moolchan of Texas Southern, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

Sims and Moolchan play Alvaro Angel and Carlos Dario Behar of Presbyterian (South Carolina) today for the doubles championship. Unseeded Angel and Behar upset first-seeded Craig Edwards and Kendall Char of the University of Redlands, 7-6, 6-4.

Redlands, as expected, wrapped up its ninth team championship in 10 years at the NIAA tournament.

The SCIAA champions clinched their third straight title when seventh-seeded Dan Hanson rallied for a 2-6, 6-1, 6-4 semifinals victory over Martin Sturgess of Edinboro in singles play.

Hanson will play top-seeded Dave Petersen of Gustavus Adolphus for the singles title today. Petersen's semifinals victim was third-seeded Edwards of Redlands, 7-5, 6-4.

Aircraft plant lays off 600

LONG BEACH (AP) — Some 600 employees at the huge McDonnell Douglas Aircraft Corp. plant here have been placed on indefinite layoffs because of a slack in the production of DC10 aircraft.

And a company spokesman said Monday that "much smaller" layoffs will occur periodically during the rest of the year.

The spokesman said many of the 600 workers would have been laid off earlier but they had been kept on until now to catch up on DC10 production, hindered by a two-month strike by the International Association of Machinists in Los Angeles area McDonnell Douglas plants.

The company, which used to turn out one DC10 a week, is cutting production back to one plane every two weeks.

APPLICATION NO. 55713

PETITION FOR INTERIM RELIEF

BEFORE THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

In the Matter of the Application of CALIFORNIA CITIES WATER COMPANY, a California corporation, for authorization to increase rates for water service in its San Dimas District.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on May 28, 1975, CALIFORNIA CITIES WATER COMPANY filed with the California Public Utilities Commission a Petition for Interim Relief in connection with the above entitled Application seeking an interim increase in its rates for its San Dimas District for General Metered Service (Schedule No. SD-1), such increase to become effective prior to and pending the Commission's final decision on Application No. 55713. Rates for Measured Irrigation Service (Schedule No. SD-2), Private Fire Protection Service (Schedule No. SD-3), and Public Fire Hydrant Service (Schedule No. SD-4) will remain unchanged.

The Company estimates that the proposed interim rates will result in an increase in gross revenues from that District of approximately $99,850, which is the amount the Company estimates will be necessary to maintain the financial integrity and the credit standing of the Company to allow the Company to borrow funds required to make needed plant additions and improvements pending the final determination by the Commission of its Application for a general rate increase. The interim rates proposed by the Company will result in a 7.90% increase in that rate schedule and will not increase the Company's earnings above the level previously authorized by the Commission.

A copy of the Petition and related exhibits may be examined at the offices of the California Public Utilities Commission in Los Angeles or San Francisco, or at the Company's District Office located at 121 North Exchange Place, San Dimas, California.

Dated June 4, 1975.

High recognition for an art center

Doc Peirsol

It happened in Pomona

In 1875, before the subdividers went into their act, what is today Pomona consisted of a general store owned by George Egan, a post office, an express office, a Methodist church, one drug store and a few homes. But growth was inevitable! Only eighteen short years later, in 1893, the residents of this thriving community were bragging about their first Pomona High School graduate, a Miss Edith Youngs; and from then on our educational progress was assured. There were two high school graduates in 1894 and three in 1895.

But it was during the next decade that Pomona really came into its own. In fact, community growth was so phenomenal that by 1904 the editor of The Pomona Daily Review was able to proudly report: "There were eleven interments in Pomona Cemetery during October."

And by 1904 we had also arrived at that point in community well being where we were even able to afford a bit of culture. So we imported John Philip Sousa's band for a special concert — a rather expensive undertaking since at the time Sousa was paying his musicians from $6 to as high as $17 a day plus expenses.

While we are on the subject of culture, it should also be pointed out that it was in June 1904 that the editor of The Pomona Daily Review raised the question: "SHOULD ART BE DESECRATED?" At the same time he voiced what was perhaps this community's first protest against racial discrimination. "There is a shoe polish," he wrote, "advertised by a parody of Raphael's Cherubs in the Sistine Madonna. Two cherubs with absurd wings, stovepipe hats and wide grins are pictured looking over a signboard. — Why doesn't the Ebell protest?"

Nineteen Hundred and Four was also the year Pomona gained an international reputation by expelling a grade school student for refusing to salute the American Flag. That school board action raised a civil rights controversy that raged for months the length and breadth of these United States.

But perhaps the clinching proof that Pomona finally had arrived at important town status took place on November 22, 1904. The Pomona Daily Review reported the occasion in this fashion:

— "Frank Mason, known throughout America as the 'globe-trotting bootblack', landed in town on the noon train and left a few hours later for Riverside. He has set out on a nation-wide tour to shine shoes in every town of 5,000 or more population in the U.S.A."

Greco's classic bishop sacrifice

No attacking idea is more basic than the so-called Greco's sacrifice, which is first found in Greco's own chess handbook, published in 1619.

The position as given by Greco himself is seen in Diagram One. White will sacrifice his bishop to expose black's king and then threaten a winning checkmate with his queen and knight. Our second diagram shows the position after 1. BxP check, KxB; 2. N-N5 check, K-N1; 3. Q-R5, and there is no defense to mate via 3... R-K1; 4. Q-R7 check, K-B1; and 5. Q-R8 mate or 3... BxN;

4. PxP, P-B3; 5. P-N6 and 6. Q-R8 mate is inevitable. Nor does an attempt to vary on move two with... K-N3 or... K-R3 save the game, as the reader were "forced," i.e., easy to calculate to conclusion.

Recently the young Yugoslavian Baile had a much more difficult judgment to make in his game particular position?

Baile acted forthrightly, sacrificed the bishop and won forcefully, as we can see from our final position, in which black resigned. The latter's king in diagram 4 has been driven far afield and there is no defense (1. Q-B5 check, K-Q3; 2. N-N5 check, K-k2; 3. R-K1 and it's over).

The fact remains that Baile's sacrifice was substantially less clean than our first example. There were many more possibilities from sacrifice to conclusion.

Was it sound? Here are the moves from Diagram Three to Diagram Four: 1. BxP check, KxB; 2. N-N5 check, K-R3; 3. Q-Q3, BxN; 4. PxP check, KxP; 5. P-K4, K-B3; 6. O-O-O, P-B5; 7. Q-N3, R-K1; 8. R-R7, K-K3; 9. PxP check, K-Q2; 10. Q-N4 check, K-Q3; 11. Q-B4 check, K-Q2; resigns.

Play through and analyze some of the possibilities to see whether the sacrifice was sound.

can readily convince himself.

But our first example of Greco's sacrifice is absolute simplicity compared to what can happen. For the winning variations against International Master Raicevic in the recent Yugoslavian championship. (See Diagram Three) Should he or shouldn't he try the classic sally? Is it justified in this

High recognition for an art center

The City of Riverside's Cultural Heritage Landmark No. 18 is a gracious, two-story Spanish-style structure on a busy street in the heart of the city.

The designation was bestowed last month on the Riverside Art Center and Museum, housing a bustling non-profit organization dedicated to the practice and appreciation of the arts. It is an art academy attended by some 1,000 stu-

The Riverside Art Center and Museum, incorporated in 1958 and located at the present site since 1966, is the cultural focal point for contemporary visual arts and their related activities in the "Inland Empire," according to the center brochure. The center operates on an even keel, owing neither money nor allegiance to any group or foundation.

Throughout the year it series of the center throughout the year, joined by 24 different exhibits — the current one, a high school art show; the previous one, the seventh annual exhibition of Watercolor West.

General factotum of the center is Alan Garrett, a black-bearded 6-footer who was graduated from the Otis Art Institute in Los Angeles in 1966. He works in a wide variety of media — drawing, design, printmaking, cast metal and welded steel. He spent three years at the Hockaday (Mont.) Center for the Arts, and came to the Riverside center in 1973. He is a dedicated young man with boundless enthusiasm for the center.

"We've made some positive steps recently," he said. "The caliber of work at the center has improved and the exhibits are better and more varied. The shows range from classical to contemporary. We have to meet the needs of the community and make people aware of various art forms and styles."

Among the goals of the Pennsylvania-born director is to get more exposure for the permanent collection.

"We want to get it out more, lend it to the schools, help teachers with problems," he said. "We dents a year and a gallery visited annually by 3,000 school children and hundreds of art lovers, artists and collectors.

The organization is one of the most active and flourishing art centers in Southern California. A visitor walking through the classic doorway might be confronted by a smock-clad student with a damp ceramic work in his hands or a paint-daubed housewife on her way from the watercolor class or a gaggle of elementary school children, wide-eyed and chattering, following a guide about the displays.

offers classes, taught by prominent Southern California artists, in painting, sculpture, ceramics, stained glass, jewelry, needlepoint, weaving and other media. It maintains a prosperous sales and rental gallery, where art lovers can acquire works of art for home and office permanently or temporarily.

The museum itself houses the center's permanent collection of some pieces of sculpture, paintings, prints, etchings, porcelains and fiber work. These are on revolving display in the various gal-want to get the kids into the way an artist sees and creates, the tools he uses."

The Riverside Art Center and Museum, overseen by a board of trustees, operates on an annual budget of $120,000. The funds come from art class tuition, a percentage of the sales, and dues from the 700 members. These are $20 active membership, $30 family, $40 supporting, and $75 and up, patron. The center also profits from courses given there for university extension credit.

The center has a complete ceramics studio, a sculpture studio, jewelry and enameling studio, and two general studios for painting and drawing. There is also a special studio and gallery for children's classes. The building, constructed in 1929, was formerly the YWCA.

If Garrett is the pilot of the center, the engine is the 10-year-old Art Alliance which provides a firm foundation of continuity, assists at shows and demonstrations, and raises funds through a variety of social and cultural events — an antique auction, Renoir picnic party, theater parties and other activities. The Art Alliance is made up of some 60 dedicated women who volunteer much time and service to the art center's programs.

"There is a need for the center here," Garrett said, "and a need to keep it growing, changing and expanding. We are here for the benefit of the community, its artists and art lovers. We are here for the look on the children's faces. That's what it's all about."

ON THE COVER

The handsome, Spanish-style building at 3425 Seventh St., Riverside, is the Riverside Art Center and Museum, focal point of the art activities of the inland city. Recently designated Cultural Heritage Landmark No. 18, the center serves as an art school for 1,000 students a year, a repository for the permanent collection and an exhibition hall for local and touring shows.

THE BEST AMERICAN SHORT STORIES 1974 Edited by Martha Foley. Houghton Mifflin. $8.95.

The twenty selections here are conventional magazine products: mannered, self-conscious slices of life, each with the mini-epiphany or moment of truth tucked carefully inside so that classes in creative writing and voiceless readers who must take 'em or leave 'em.

Foley's range of "best" stories is amazingly narrow:

The stories included here are humdrum little piecemeal units produced in some gigantic story factory by busy little hands

Story has suspense to the end

By FRAN DAILEY

NIGHT OF THE JUGGLER By McGivern, William P. Putnam's Sons $7.95.

The days are growing shorter, the nights are cooler, and Gus Soltick's animal instincts tell him that it will soon be the anniversary of his mother's death—the day on which he will kill another girl, just as he has done each successive October 15th for five years.

Gus has already picked his next victim, 11-year-old Kate Boyd, the daughter of an ex-Army officer. And even though Gus lacks the intelligence to reason, his senses are highly developed and he will be able to entice Kate and her dog into the darkness of Central Park where he'll be lurking.

Detective "Gypsy" Tonelli has also been waiting for October 15th. He and his task force have been working around the clock the past three months preparing for this night. They hope to capture the killer who has been dubbed "The Juggler," because of his modus operandi which includes abducting, mutilating, raping, and then slashing the jugular vein of his young victims. "Night of the Juggler" is a fast-moving, action-filled book and will appeal to those who like suspense to the very end.

powered by uncreative minds.

That daring young man of 40 years ago, William Saroyan, is somehow represented here with a little sketch about a failed writer, "Isn't Today the Day?" or Saroyan 1964."

John Updike is also here, with a not-bad sketch called "Son," which recapitulates his own father-son relationships.

There is also another of Mary Lavin's Irish-remembrance stories from "The New Yorker," which has been using her material the way it once used the lowkeyed Irish tales of Frank O'Connor.

Agnes Boyer's "The Deserter" is a brief glimpse of a Canadian housewife providing a little reluctant and guilty hospitality to a young American Army deserter: "... there is a stigma on him here, not from what he has done, but just from his origin."

Jerry Bumpus's "Beginnings" is a contorted symbolic story about a married couple, both artists, who "take in" a mysterious young wayfarer for one of their "experiments."

A really depressing story, much in the Joyce Carol Oates tradition, is John L'Heureux's "A Family Affair," about a mismatched couple (the husband an irresponsible drunk), their mongoloid baby, and their older daughter's illegitimate pregnancy, which results in the mother's jealousy and cruel and inhuman punishment for the daughter.

A number of "sailing" and "travel" stories, with appropriate atmosphere, are also included. Stephen Minot's "The Tide and Isaac Bates" is a long prelude to a dramatic scene in which a drunken father makes an obscene pass at his daughter. Michael Rothschild's "Dog in the Manger" is about a pack of murderous greyhounds who kill and are killed in return.

Peter Sandberg's "Calloway's Climb" is about a tragic-ending mountain climbing expedition in the Colorado Rockies. Story after story, the message is the same: things fall apart, nothing comes out right, misery, destruction, sadness are inevitable in a human endeavor.

Martha Foley in her 1974 collection of favorite stories is unusually pessimistic, lacking, I feel, a proper sense of proportion.

'Likable' outlaw no hero

BY SIDNEY CONE
THE LEVY CAPER by David Shaw Macmillan $6.95.

This is an account of a small-time thief and gambler's almost unbelievable experiences when he encounters what looks like an opportunity to join the big-time swindlers and end up with several million dollars.

The author keeps

repeating that the thief, Levy, is a very likable character and that, after 40 some years of existing illegally on other people's money, he is still able to convince lawyers, FBI men, and other swindlers that he is a friendly individual and not really guilty of the many crimes he has committed even though he pleads guilty and is a star witness for the prosecution.

He is able to convince our entire system of police and justice administration because they believe that Levy is the only one among the many crooks, involved in the "caper" who will truthfully testify for the prosecution.

He ends up with a very short sentence in a minimum security establishment and is visited whenever possible by the 17-year-old girl who is to become his seventh wife soon after he is released.

Another witness must have been telling something near the truth because he is executed, gangland style, in Las Vegas before he can finish his testimony. This character was working for a living but apparently this was not enough to counteract Levy's likability and luck.

Allegedly a true story, "The Levy Caper" presents a number of characters whose conduct is a major contribution to the increasing crime rate in the United States. There is some entertainment value in the book, but the tendency to accept criminal conduct on a wide scale—even if some of it is "likeable"—is more depressing than entertaining.

Antique wise — — Q. and A.

Question: We own an original William Tell mechanical bank. His son stands in front of a castle and lowering the son's hand raises the apple to the top of his head. William Tell has what resembles a gun which shoots a coin into the castle, knocking the apple off the son's head. This old bank bears the patent date of June 23, 1896. Could you give us an idea of its value? L.A.C.

Answer: If in good working condition, William Tell mechanical banks are carrying $175-$200 price tags.

Question: My wife and I have in our possession a very old mantel clock which was left to us by the former owner of the house we now live in. We would be very grateful if you could give us your opinion as to its value. The following description is as best as I can offer without any photograph. Everything is in tip-top condition, nothing broken, other than the appearance of old age. The overall size is approximately 16 inches across, 11½ inches high, and 6 inches deep. The outer case is wood and colored black with curved lines carved at the bottom front portion of the case. These lines are very thin, ending with dots and filled with gold paint. There are two large brass filigree legs in front, and two plain square brass legs at the rear. A brass image—somewhat resembling a gargoyle—face down, on each side of the end panels. There are four Roman columns, two on either side of the face plate, with crimson marbelized bases and caps and brass ends. The inner brass frame which supports the gear mechanisms is inscribed with the year 1906, and manufacturee By Wm. L. Gilbert Clock Co., Windsted, Conn. U.S.A. there is also a paper nameplate with a yellow background and black lettering which gives the name of the clock as "FRANCE" in addition to the name and address of the above manufacturer. J.P.W.

Answer: Gilbert mantel clocks like yours usually sell from about $75-$90.

Question: Recently my grandmother left me a few of her belongings. The jewelry and china I treasure, but I would consider selling several complete sets of small newspaper known as "Harpers Bazaar Weekly." I was amazed at their condition after all these years, as they are absolutely perfect, and each one is over 100 years old as they are all dated. Please let me know if these might have some value. S.B.

Answer: Your early newspapers do have a value. Harpers Weekly of this vintage usually sell from $3-4 per copy, in this condition.

Pomona Cemetery is city's oldest business

Towering shade trees, colorful plants and flowers, and green lawns provide the setting for Pomona's oldest continuous business—Pomona Cemetery.

Originally occupying a small parcel at Franklin and Towne avenues, the cemetery's first burial was made in 1877.

Between 1882 and 1892, the cemetery was operated by the Pomona Odd Fellows Lodge. In 1892 the Pomona Cemetery Association was formed. It still operates the grounds, which now has grown to 80 acres.

The association is governed by a board of trustees with Pomona businessman San Gist as president. Other members of the board are C. R. Goff and Gaius L. Keiser, vice president; Robert S. Hickson, director; Robert J. Ranck, secretary; and Frank T. Carr, assistant secretary.

Ranck, who manages the cemetery, points out that the grounds, in addition to being Pomona's oldest continuous business, also has historical significance as the site of the Pomona stop on the Butterfield Stage Coach line.

The coach stop site is marked by a huge sycamore tree.

A large rose garden, stained glass windows in the mausoleum, and a hand-sculptured art piece imported from Italy highlight the grounds. The sculpture, "Praying Hands," weighs over 1,100 pounds and was created especially for the cemetery.

The Veterans' Memorial in the cemetery is the annual site of Memorial Day services by local veterans' organizations.

The older section of the cemetery is dotted with large stone monument grave markers, which are no longer used anywhere in the cemetery.

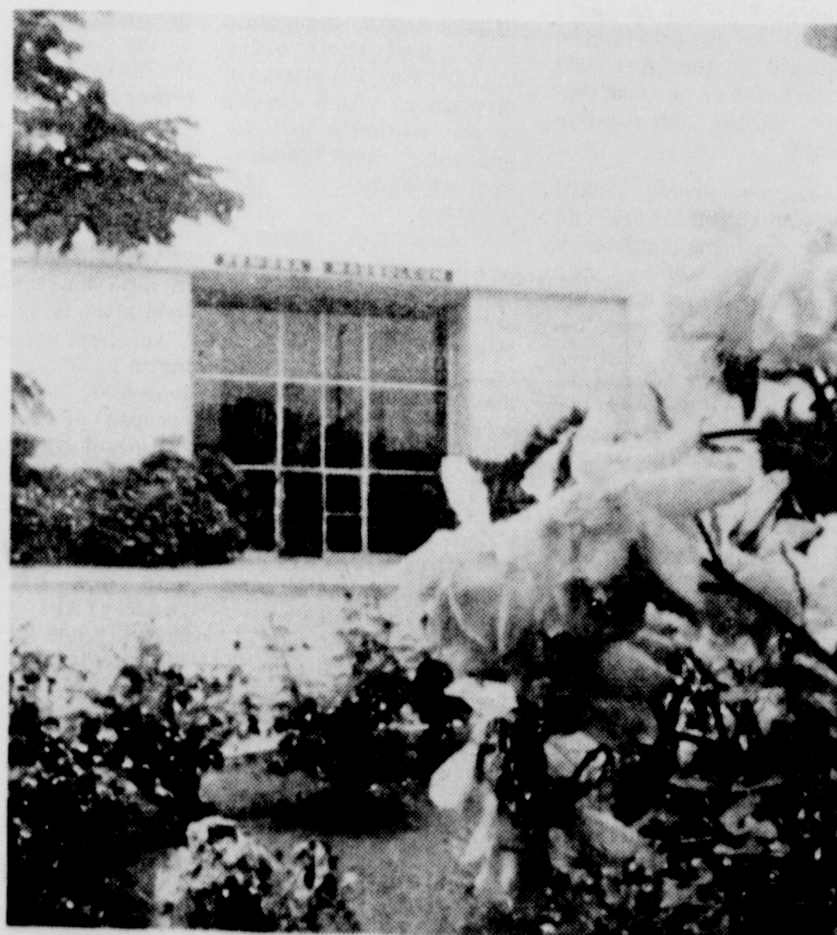

The cemetery's mausoleum contains some 10,000 crypts and a crematorium built 10 years ago.

"Great care is given to the appearance of the cemetery" said Ranck, who invites tours of the grounds.

Assisting Ranck in operation of the association office at the grounds are secretaries Linnea Ferris and Bertha Gilbert.

HISTORICAL SPOT — This stately sycamore tree marks the spot where the Butterfield Coach used to stop in the early days of Pomona.

THE MAUSOLEUM — In the center of the 80-acre Pomona Cemetery is the mausoleum, which contains 10,000 crypts and a crematorium.

Grant, a musician, is an energetic and dependable worker and often was the leading fund raiser for many school candy sales, car washes and bike-a-thons. His spirit is an inspiration to students and faculty, Beta Mu said.

Raymond Johnson has made significant contributions in music and athletics. He is a member of the Chamber Singers and a group soloist. He has had many requests to sing and perform with his guitar. He is a good gymnast and has assisted the gymnastics teacher.

Miss Dias, one of two

Bonita graduates 16 after 3 years

By PETE MARTINEZ
Bonita Reporter

Sixteen juniors will be graduated from Bonita High School this June after only three years of high school.

They have really worked hard to graduate a year early. Most of them have attended summer school at least two years to earn extra credits. Others have taken some ROP classes, and have taken seven regular classes at school.

Even though these students have taken extra courses to earn more credits, most of them technically will have enough credits to graduate early, but they will be 10 credits short of meeting requirements.

The procedure for these students is that they attend summer school following graduation. So, these students do not actually receive a diploma at the graduation ceremonies.

The juniors graduating at the end of their third year in high school are Rebecca Callaway, Letecia Armenta, Sandy Garcia, Lauren Helm, Joanne Hobo, Karen Hoover, Alma Perez, Doreen Romo and Tamara Stump.

Michelle Vierich, Lindsay Webster, Darlene Witkowski, Lynne Hathaway, Steve Miller, Cheryl Burton and Lori Howell.

ATHLETIC AWARDS

Award presentations for athletes during the spring season were held recently at Bonita.

The award presentations were made at the "Spring Awards Banquet" which was held at Griswolds in Claremont.

The guest speaker at the banquet was Ken Squire, a scout for the Philadelphia Flyers.

The varsity baseball team which won the league crown for the second year in a row was honored along with the junior varsity and frosh teams. The varsity and junior varsity tennis teams were also honored.

Harold Drake received a special award for his uniqueness as an all around athlete. The Ellsworth Green Award which is presented to the best senior athlete was presented to Harold Drake. The most valuable player on the varsity baseball team was Harold Drake, most improved was Ron Pickenpaugh, and leading hitter was Dave Drury.

The most valuable player on the junior varsity team was Art Escoto, and the most valuable frosh/soph was Jack Cozad.

The most valuable player on the varsity tennis team was Karl Heim, and most improved was Dale Dyck. The most valuable junior varsity player was Mike Hansen.

Hundreds of organs built to provide accompaniment to silent films half a century ago remain playable. In addition to imitating all the instruments of a band from drums, trumpets and trombones to violins, clarinets and cymbals, they can duplicate the sounds of a clanging trolley bell, the hooves of galloping horses, birds' songs, surf, a train whistle and an Oriental gong.

The dark meat of the turkey is dark because it has been well supplied with blood vessels. The white meat of the breasts — the muscles that power the wings — indicates that bred-for-eating turkeys are weak flyers at best. Wild turkeys, on the other hand, may be able to fly a mile, hitting 45 miles an hour.
